In recognition of Heart Month, state Rep. Jeff Currey (D-East Hartford/ Manchester/ South Windsor), along with the chairs of the EMS Caucus, hosted East Hartford business Code One Training Solutions at the Capitol Tuesday to provide free CPR training demonstrations.

Throughout the day, legislators, staff, and visitors dropped by for 20-minute CPR demonstrations and heart health information.

“I’m so glad Code One came to the Capitol to offer this public service during Heart Month. The CPR trainings they provide make our communities safer,” Rep. Currey said. “It was a great way to highlight a local business, one that started out of a dorm room at UCONN, and encourage people to learn about risks for heart disease and preventive steps they can take.”

Code One is an American Heart Association Training Center, and their training programs include CPR and First Aid, EMT initial and EMS continuing education classes. Their East Hartford location is at 121 Roberts Street. Heart Month takes place during February and raises awareness of Heart Disease.
